

Dibas Poudel

I am a passionate and driven frontend developer with hands-on expertise in React, HTML, CSS, JavaScript, Tailwind CSS, and some experience with Bootstrap and GSAP. I have built several projects, including an e-commerce website, and am currently working on an e-learning app that will incorporate features like login/signup functionality, a mock test feature, and Redux for state management. I am currently deepening my React skills through advanced courses and practical applications, focusing on concepts like React context, hooks, and state management. I am excited to bring my knowledge of modern frontend technologies and my enthusiasm for learning to a React developer position, where I can contribute to building impactful, dynamic user interfaces.
